From #1 Best Selling Author John Stryker Meyer:

"Colin Flaherty was the reporter's reporter – especially on tough stories. And he was recognized for it with more than 50 journalism awards over the years.

"Now he has written a book about the toughest story of all: Racial violence."

"Flaherty has the goods. This is an important and penetrating book about a big problem. Read it. Pass it around. Send it to a local talk show host or, better still, a reporter."

"I just knows they need it."

Sean Hannity

Foxnfi.com

"Flaherty digs up some great examples of officials denying or covering up black violence. My favorite example was a school superintendent in Philadelphia who circulated "a pamphlet on how not to antagonize black students." Among the things not to do: that most papers were buying equipment that the violence had "no racial component." Right."
